

Genderless birth certificates

13. Recently, the Ontario provincial government announced that it plans to begin issuing gender-neutral birth certificates (that is, birth certificates that do not show the sex of the person identified) to people who want them by 2018.

How much news and commentary (both online and in traditional media) would you say you have seen about this issue? Are you:

- Seeing a lot of coverage and discussing it with friends and family
- Seeing some coverage and having the odd conversation
- Just scanning the headlines
- Haven't seen or heard anything about it

14 Ontario [FOR THOSE IN ONTARIO]

And, based on whatever you have seen or heard about this plan to issue gender-neutral birth certificates upon request, would you say you support it or oppose it?

- Strongly support
- Moderately support
- Moderately oppose
- Strongly oppose

14 ROC [FOR THOSE IN OTHER REGIONS]

And, based on whatever you have seen or heard about Ontario's plan to issue gender-neutral birth certificates upon request, would you support or oppose such a change in your own province?

- Strongly support
- Moderately support
- Moderately oppose
- Strongly oppose

15 [ASK ALL]

Ontario also allows residents to opt for an X, rather than an M or F on their drivers' licenses, and has removed gender information from health care cards entirely. Broadly speaking, which of the following statements is closest to your own view on this phenomenon, even if neither is exactly how you feel?

[ROTATE]

Allowing gender neutral identification for those who want it is a BAD thing – it should be stopped

Allowing gender neutral identification for those who want it is a GOOD thing – it should continue