Recently, the federal government announced the signing of three agreements with the Musqueam First Nation recognizing Aboriginal rights in Metro Vancouver. Prior to this survey, how much did you know about these agreements?

A lot

A little

Nothing at all

Q_Land2.

Base=BC

Single choice

The agreements call for collaboration with the Musqueam over water, fisheries, and resources within the nation's territory. Some people say this agreement will affect private property rights within the Musqueam territory, which includes much of Vancouver, Burnaby, Richmond and Delta.

The federal government and Musqueam say these agreements will not affect private property rights.

How much do you trust the assurances from the federal government and the Musqueam that these agreements will not affect private property rights?

Trust them a great deal
Trust them somewhat
Do not trust them very much
Do not trust them at all
Not sure / Can't say

Q_Land3.
Base=BC
Single choice

If there were ever a conflict between protecting private property rights and recognizing Indigenous governance and decision-making within their traditional territory, which do you think should take priority?

Protecting private property rights
Recognizing Indigenous governance and decision-making within their traditional territory
Not sure / Can't say

Q_Land4 [TRACKER].
Base=BC
Single choice

British Columbia is the only province in Canada that has passed legislation to align its laws with UNDRIP (the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples). This includes a commitment to recognize and uphold Indigenous rights and title, and to involve First Nations in decisions about land and development.

Based on what you've seen, read, or heard, how would you describe your view of this approach?
It's a necessary step toward reconciliation and correcting historical injustices
It goes too far in limiting provincial authority over land and resources
Not sure / Can't say

Q_Land5 [TRACKER].
Base=BC
Single choice

Overall, do you feel that your province gives too much, too little, or the right amount of attention to Indigenous issues?

Too much
About the right amount
Too little

Not sure/Can't say
