Single choice

Recently, Alberta Premier Danielle Smith announced a series of questions that will be put to a referendum in October. Several of the questions ask about whether or not people with federal temporary resident status (students, foreign workers, refugee claimants) should be eligible for government-funded social services such as health and education.

If it were up to you, who do you believe should be eligible to receive government-funded social services?

- Everyone living in Canada – temporary or permanent
- Only people living in Canada permanently, excluding temporary residents
- Only Canadian citizens, excluding temporary and permanent residents
- Not sure/ Can't say
